Armistice Dance In Irma November 11

NOTES OF INTEREST OF BUSY KINSELLA

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Wangness and Mrs. Lund returned last week-end from a three week's trip to Minnesota. They were caught in the storm in Saskatchewan and had to leave their car at Biggar on account of the roads being blocked with snow.

The C.G.I.T. will hold a tea in the church on Saturday afternoon, the 16th. Everyone is invited to help the girls make this tea a success by attending.

Mr. Witton of the Red and White store was a visitor to the city the first of the week.

Mr. Wilbur Garvie and family and Mrs. W. Garvie left last week for Michigan, where they will visit the next two or three months.

Miss Harriet McFarland and Mr. Debs Faulkner were married in Edmonton a week ago, and have returned to the Rodino community to make their home.

Mrs. E. Mark and Miss Laura have returned from a two week's visit at Bashaw and Three Hills.

Miss Lucille Mark left Sunday for Three Hills where she will work for the winter.

Mr. Ivan Sheppy, of Three Hills, spent the week-end here.

Alice Swift, Local Girl, Makes Fine Showing at
Sheep and Swine Show

(From the Viking News)

Viking district came into the limelight again last week, when Miss Alice Swift, a local farmette of Clover Lodge, scattered a little star dust at the Edmonton sheep and swine show, capturing the honor of champion shearer in the lamb trimming contest over a number of junior farmers.

She won the two top places in the children's lamb feeding competitions and received the highest price for lambs at the show. They were purchased by the T. Eaton Co. Alice also was awarded the Hudson's Bay Special for the highest number of points in the junior judging contests.

This young farmette has been a prominent exhibitor since 1926 and attributes her success in the livestock industry to the knowledge she has gained through club work and school fairs, where she has been a successful member at Inislaire school fair.

IN FLANDERS' FIELDS

In Flanders' fields, the poppies blow,
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from falling hands, we throw
The torch. Be yours to lift it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders' fields.

Hepburn to Retire Soon
For Health

Toronto, Nov. 5. — Premier Hepburn announced today he would retire as premier of Ontario after the 1936 session of the legislature. His prospective retirement is brought about by ill health.

"My two enemies, fatigue and worry, have pursued me relentlessly on this job and have resulted in complications which culminated in my present condition," said Mr. Hepburn who has been in office for more than a year and who has only one session of the legislature behind him.

"Immediately after the 1935 session of the legislature I shall advise the Liberal Association of my intention to retire, so that my successor may be chosen," he said.

"I didn't intend the announcement to be made just yet but as it is a matter of public interest it might just as well be known now," added the premier. "I intend to retire from political life after the next session, solely because of poor health."

United Church Notes

It deserves special mention that the attendance at Sunday school last Sunday passed the century mark — and reached 105. In order to give better accommodation in the church and basement the bible class is meeting in the Manse.

There was an astonishing attendance at the bazaar and supper at Roseberry, under the auspices of the Alma Mater—Roseberry ladies' aid, considering the fact that the temperature was extremely low and the snowdrifts deep. However, all who got there were well repaid in a three-fold manner—by a sumptuous meal, by the opportunity of purchasing many beautiful and useful articles at most reasonable prices, and by a most enjoyable and well-balanced program.

At the Irma ladies' aid bazaar and tea on Saturday afternoon, there was a steady stream of patrons who were not slow in making purchases from a really tempting display of goods, and at the same time the tea tables were in constant use. The proceeds reached almost $60.

As the road conditions prevented the pastor from getting out to Paschen and Roseberry last Sunday, an afternoon service was held at very short notice in Crescent Heights school on the Irma-Wainwright highway. The attendance was very gratifying, 24 being present. It is proposed to continue service at this point every second Sunday at 2 p.m. during the winter season, as long as the highway is open to car traffic. Residents in the neighborhood are given a cordial invitation to attend. Next service, Sunday, November 17. Services will be continued at Albert, Alma Mater, and also Paschenchale if road conditions should turn favorable.

United church friends are urged to attend the Canadian Legion service of remembrance on Armistice day November 11th, in Kiefer's hall at 10.45 a.m.

MARRIAGES

BRICKMAN—McNAB

The marriage of Miss J. McNab, of Lacombe, and Mr. Chas. Brickman, of Phillips district, was solemnized at the United church manse on Thursday, October 31st, the Rev. Dr. Scott officiating. After the nuptial service the newlyweds left for Edmonton by motor for a short honeymoon after which they will make their home on the groom's farm near Phillips post office.

The bride has been teacher at the Quinte school during the past few years, and the groom is well and favorably known throughout the Phillips district where he grew to manhood. A host of friends extend congratulations and good wishes.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Edmonton on Wednesday, October 30, 1935, when Gladys Olive, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webb, of Bruce, and Richard Elmer, second son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Davis, also of Bruce, were united in marriage by Rev. Edwardson.

SPORT PEEPS

The poetry of motion is said to be "a picnic girl with a bug down her back". It was something like that when the rugged battler from Germany, Walter Neusel, faced the giant Primo Carnera, the Ambling Alp. The Italian was determined to win the war promptly, and brought out his heavy artillery with the ding of the first bell. In the fourth round, Neusel thought his facial map had been pushed around to the back, deliberately dropped his hands to his sides and walked to his corner. Thus Carnera mounted one of the steps up to look at that championship belt, he once wore.

With the advent of winter, local interest suddenly centered on curling. The enthusiasts of the stone and broom gathered in conclave, preparing voice and muscle for the great annual contests. From the long list of men and youths signifying their desire to play the game, skips were directed to select their helpers. It looks like ten rinks of four each, who will line up for the foot of the whistle. The opening date all depends upon Fred Ross and his helper, Old Man Winter. Fred does the mental work, such as dropping a few barrels of water gently in the desired place and then the "old man" is asked to hold them there.

Followers of Rugby know that the Dominion championship has never come west of the Lakes. Just why has been a puzzling question. Out here we can do the brain-and-brawn stuff that wins in hockey, but in rugby tactics our prairie boys have always taken the honors that go to the defeated. This year Winnipeg has a team that bids fair to bring the Senior title to the West, if winter will permit the games being played. Football is really not a game for deep snow.

APPENDICITIS

Health Service of the Canadian Medical Association and Life Insurance Companies in Canada.

The appendix is the most useless, and, at the same time, one of the most troublesome parts of the body. It is a slender tube, usually about three inches in length, attached to the large bowel in the lower right side of the abdomen.

Because of its size and structure, the appendix is prone to fall victim to infection by invading germs, which set up an inflammation called appendicitis. The germs may enter from the bowel, or come in the blood stream from distant parts of the body, such as infected tonsils or teeth.

The symptoms of appendicitis are usually definite. The first symptom is pain. Generally sudden and severe, it may be felt over the region of the appendix in the lower right side of the abdomen, but just as often it is in the pit of the stomach, or it may be a general abdominal pain.

A feeling of nausea, with vomiting, follows the onset of pain. At this time, there is some fever. Constipation is usual, but occasionally there is a diarrhoea. The severity of the symptoms will vary.

Appendicitis occurs at all ages and in both sexes. It is rare during the first five years of life, but about one-half of all cases occur under twenty years of age.

Recovery from the first acute attack is the rule. Unfortunately, in some cases the appendix ruptures, the infection spreads and a fatal peritonitis develops; in others, a local abscess forms. For many, the acute attack is the beginning of a chronic condition, with acute relapses.

There is one thing which everyone should know. When there is abdominal pain—stomach-ache, colic, or whatever name you call it—do nothing but send for a doctor. Such pains are always a sign of danger. NEVER, NEVER give a laxative to a person.

The doctor is never called too early. The reason why so many people die from appendicitis is because the doctor is summoned too late and the patient has been given a laxative.

If you must do something for abdominal pain, put on an ice-pack or compresses wrung out of cold water while you are waiting for the doctor, but always remain on the safe side and avoid giving laxatives.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and miss the path Aurora added: "If all those complimentary newspaper reporters knew I was terrified at the thought of ending my days in a wheel-chair, I guess they'd be frightfully disillusioned!"

"Disillusioned?" Matt's eyes flashed with protective indignation. "Disillusioned? Why—"

"Are you plannin' to stay to dinner, Matt Adam?" called Aurora shrilly. "If so, and you're willin' to carry up three trays, you and Miss Columbine can eat with Nancy. What say?"

CHAPTER XXII.

"I am well aware, dear Cousin James," wrote Columbine Nelson on the first day of May, "how anxious you are to get your heroic young folks back; but nevertheless, I am going to ask a favor: Let them stay until Jack has time to fill out again. He looked so splendid the morning they started off for Prairie Ranch that I can't bear to send him home to you as gaunt as he is now. A few weeks of careful feeding will work wonders in his appearance; and Aurora Tubbs is itching to 'fat him up,' as she expresses it. If I may keep them until after the fourth of July they'll have a chance to see so much more of this wonderful country, and your old cousin will be far happier."

A note from Nancy added her plea:

"Don't ever think that we're not crazy to see you all, but Jack is a beanpole, and Aurora's marvelous cooking ought to fix that in no time. Then too, 'Uncle Tom and Aunt Em' want us at Prairie Ranch for a few days, just to convince us, I imagine, that the plains can be warm and friendly as well as cold and cruel. A visit there will be something to remember; and anyway, Jack refuses to go home until he's husky enough to handle a pick and shovel and can straighten up the gate posts at Cousin Columbine's driveway. They trouble him a great deal more than they do her (!); but she does want the house painted, and couldn't afford to because she paid our fares out here. Aurora told me that. I guess Uncle Jebber don't make any great pin in Leadville; and I shan't accept a penny of the 'salary' he offered as bait in that comical letter. Your wandering girl will return as poor as she started out."

"But I'm feeling wonderful now. My feet are as good as new. The library's booming; and I still get something of a kick when any one addresses me as 'Miss Aladdin.' I've not gone back on New England, Daddy; but I'll miss the library and those 'big, open spaces' we Easterners joke about. Tell Phil I'm sending him some real Indian arrow heads."

"Though the family at Edgemere was disappointed, this plan was obviously best for Jack, and they did not protest. The boy's strength returned more rapidly than Cousin Columbine anticipated; and by the middle of May they ventured to make some of the long-promised excursions to places not far distant enough to tire him."

"Yes, that was true, Nancy. I'm never going to forget the way I felt when the nurse told me an amputation wasn't necessary. I wanted to cheer, or—cry or something. Miss Columbine did cry when I told her."

Nancy swallowed, and it struck the young man that she was still frightened.

"Is there something else you want to know, Nancy?"

"Only—only—well, Mark carried me upstairs when I came home, Matt. Are my feet really all right, or—"

So she had been lying there acting cheerful and worrying about that! thought Matthew. Oh, she was wonderful!

"Of course they're all right!" he reassured her. "You could walk on them now, only the doctor said you weren't to go too fast. That's straight, Nancy. I wouldn't deceive you a time like this."

The girl sank back limply against her pillows.

"I suppose I'm a moron; but I've wanted to ask that question for days, and was too scared!" She smiled now, at her own foolishness, and

"But who cares, my dear? We'll make up the neglected work after you leave us; and it warms my heart to see how Miss Columbine enjoys these trips. It gives her a new lease of life to visit the old scenes and talk of those times with young folks who are really interested."

Jack thrilled over that trip to Cripple Creek; but the day they visited the scene of Mark's Penitence's colossal hoax, stood out a high light in Nancy's memory. This was during the first week in June, a day with soft, white clouds drifting across the sky, and air like mid-summer. Their road led past ranches where men were ploughing immense acres; then on through mile after mile of yellow pines. Seated between Mark and Matthew in the old truck (the com-

Don't Entrust Your

Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

fort of the new edan being given over to the older Adams, Cousin Columbine, and Jack), Nancy caught her breath at occasional glimpses of distant mountains, some snow-rimmed.

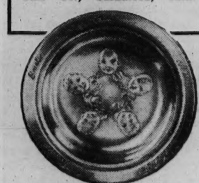

"I'm all but speechless over this scenery," she confessed, while the boys smiled in amusement at her enthusiasm. "Get those two idiots" (with a backward glance toward Luke and Mary Taylor, seated on cushions in the rear), "are jabbering away as if there were no 'wonders to behold.' What all this?"

"Love's young dream, lady," Mark opined as he slowed down for a thank-you-ma'am. "Luke's always been more or less what Aurora calls 'sweet on Mary; and that girl has certainly blossomed out just lately, the result, I believe, of association with Miss Aladdin."

Nancy laughed; and Matt said solemnly: "With all due respect to Miss Aladdin, I've a notion that our kid brother is responsible for that change in Mary Taylor." He turned to view the unsuspecting couple seated below, and added: "At any rate, they're both oblivious to the scenery!"

Mark chuckled, and rounding a curve, announced: "Here's your pioneer cemetery, Nancy—the one Miss Columbine told about. Shall we view it from here, or are you determined to climb that slope in this hot sun?"

"What did we come for?" the girl responded; and as Matt sprang down she took his steadying hand and followed. "I wouldn't miss seeing this place for anything. Aren't you all coming?"

Mark shook his head.

"I'm starving. I'm going to forage in the lurch box. What do you say, folks?"

This last was addressed to Luke and Mary, to whom the lurch box seemed more alluring than the cemetery. So it was with Matt alone that Nancy explored that tragic spot, looking down soberly on graves protected only by sagging fences, the marking on their wooden headboards almost obliterated—some wholly lost amid an overgrowth of weeds and bushes.

Perhaps it was the history of the place that silenced the young people. Neither spoke for a time; and then Nancy stooped, laying a spray of the blossoming pink knickknack on one small unmarked resting place.

"Somebody's baby," she explained, flushing a bit for fear that Matt would think her sentimental; but to her relief he added:

"And all because of one man's greed. I'd hate to be responsible for such a place, Nancy; yet when my time comes I'd rather lie in this wild tangle than in a city cemetery with a neatly mowed lawn above me, and a 'perpetual care' sign over my head."

His voice was thoughtful, and with sudden inspiration the girl quoted:

"Under the wide and starry sky
Dig my grave and let me lie."

"Is that how you feel, Matt?" His eyes lighted at her intuition; but before he could reply, Mark's laughing voice broke in upon them.

"Both poetic and appropriate, young lady; but you two seem to have forgotten that we're on our way. The old folks have caught up with us, but they're too lazy to get out, and Jack's already explored this melancholy scene. There's still ten or twelve miles ahead if we're to eat our lunch on the shore of the Platte, as Miss Columbine has set her heart on doing. Have some cake?"

Matthew, who longed to strangle his brother for this intrusion, nevertheless accepted his portion with good grace; while Nancy exclaimed: "You've saved my life, Mark! I'm almost passing out. Isn't the Platte the river we read about in history? I mean the one the pioneers were always fording?"

Little Helps For This Week

Love is of God, and every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God. I. John 4:7.

Forbearing one another and forgiving one another. Colossians 3:13.

Oh, might we all our lineage prove,
Give and forgive, do good and love;
By softness, and dearments, in kind strife,
Lightening the daily load of life.

We may if we choose make the worst of one another. Every one has his faults, every one his weak points, and we may fix our attention constantly on these. But we may also make the best of one another. We may forgive even as we hope to be forgiven. We may put ourselves in the place of others and ask ourselves what we would wish to be done to us were we in their place. By loving whatever is lovable in those around us, love will flow back from them to us and life will be a pleasure instead of a pain. Earth will become like heaven and we shall not be unworthy followers of Him whose name is Love.

We understand that Mr. E. W. Peterson of Ribstone, Alta., is taking over the garage formerly occupied by Mr. A. C. Carbol. Mr. Peterson plans to move to Irma shortly where he will take charge in the garage. Mr. Carbol and family will remain in Irma for the present.

Hallowe'en was fairly quiet here this year. A few articles were moved around and deposited in conspicuous places about the village but no real damage was done. The cold weather at that time no doubt cut short the pranks which are usually indulged in.

Word was received in Irma on Wednesday, November 6th, that Miss Sophia Bateman had quietly passed away early that morning at the ripe old age of 87 years. Miss Bateman was an aunt of Mrs. R. D. Smallwood, Mrs. G. A. Tripp and Mr. J. C. McKay, was an old time resident of the Irma district, having made her home for the greater part of the time in the McKay farm south of Irma. We hope to have a more detailed account next week.

Handy Newspapers

There are many uses for old newspapers. In fact, if the housewife only realized it, they are a valuable help in reducing work and increasing comfort.

Most women never think of it, but when they stand ironing, for instance, their feet will ache intolerably. This "ache" can be most easily avoided by making a thick mat out of old newspapers. And all standing jobs can be relieved of much of their strain if wads of newspapers are put on the floor.

A newspaper "mat" needs twelve large newspapers placed one on top of the other, folded over, "packed" carefully so that they do not slip, and bound at each end with string. It will last a long time and will be found to be a boon to aching feet.

A similar mat can be made and used on wet days when youngsters are in the house. Placed just outside the door when the children are expected home from school it will save much time indoors, as most of the mud can be wiped off the boots on the mat outside. The wads can then be taken in doors and the soiled top removed and burned. At the back door such a mat saves the housewife, when there are children who will scamper in and out.

Grease on a stove can be cleared off by rubbing with a wad of paper. The washing-up loses much of its terrors if the plates are first cleared of the grease with paper. As a polish for windows, newspapers will be found more than useful as the smell of the printers' ink helps to keep away the insects. Blankets, clothes and furs should not be laid away for long periods unless layers of newspapers have been placed between the folds.

"What did you learn in your cooking class today?" asked a Jarro mother of her young daughter.

"Nothing," replied the girl, "the teacher stayed home with indigestion."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When you are frying chicken or any meat that you dip in flour, if you put flour in a paper bag and drop the meat in and shake, it will be done evenly and no plate to wash.

A Window Shade

When your window shades are beginning to wear and look shabby take them off the roller, cut a piece of cretonne the size of shade and stitch cretonne and shade together, replace on roller and you have a shade that is not expensive but very pretty.

To Keep Biscuits Hot

To keep biscuits hot on the table I put my casserole in the oven at the same time I put the biscuits in the oven to bake. When the biscuits are done I place them in the hot casserole drawing the top slightly ajar to let steam escape, and serve the biscuits in the casserole. The last biscuit is nearly as hot as the first.

To Prevent Sticking

If when making starch you use soapy water as the foundation you will have no further trouble with the iron sticking to the article you are laundering. Allow one tablespoon of soap jelly to each quart of water, adding the desired amount of starch, depending upon the garments to be starched.

For Boilers

When rust comes in the boiler a good idea is to rub it all over with soap. It takes the rust off and prevents the clothes from rusting. The boiler should be warmed and rubbed thickly with the soap.

Handy Paper Bags

Before cleaning the stove slip your hand in a paper bag, then take hold of your stove cloth or brush. You will keep your hands from getting full of stove polish.

Hard Time Jam

This is very simple to make and grown-ups enjoy it quite as much as the little ones.

Place in a saucepan two pounds of white sugar and add five half pints of fresh milk. Simmer on the stove for seven hours and then add one teaspoon of vanilla. This keeps well in warm weather.

To Make a Quilt

A warm and economical quilt can be made by cutting the feet from old silk stockings. We call it our sausage quilt, as the children enjoy stuffing the links.

Join legs together in lengths according to size of quilt desired, then fill lightly with carded wool, tack firmly on to floor sack base, mitreing or squaring corners neatly.

Mark pattern on back with colored chalk which can then be quilted on that side, either by hand or machine. Bind edges with cretonne and you have a warm winter comforter.

Rubbers for Sealers

Old used car rubbers make excellent shock absorbers when put on sealers (over the outside of can) about to be immersed in the water bath before boiling for the sterilization period. (I am speaking of the home made outfit with boiler and false bottom that has nothing to prevent cans touching each other.) I find very little breakage occurs when the cans are thus protected.

A Cedar Chest

If you would like to have a cedar chest with small outlay take a wooden box with a smooth surface inside, free from cracks and perfectly clean. Get ten cents worth of oil of cedar at the drugist's. Apply it with a small brush. Put in your furs, close tightly and you will not be troubled with moths. If you cannot get a chest or suitable box, a tea chest from the grocer will do nicely.

No Boiling Over

Many women have found it necessary to boil a few articles of clothes in a small vessel on the kitchen stove. To prevent boiling over line pieces in circles around edge of pan, leaving the centre free. In this way the boiling liquid will cover the entire contents with no danger of spilling over.

To Prevent Rusting of Tins

Very often cake tins rust with the result that the cakes baked in it have a bad taste at the bottom. To prevent this grease the tin when it is new and place it in the oven. Allow grease to bake into the tin. Remove and wash. This prolongs the life of your cake tins and saves the rusting on the bottom of your cakes.

An Umbrella Stand

I needed an umbrella stand, and having a small piece of thick linoleum about two feet deep I took an empty baby food tin six inches in diameter, rolled the linoleum round it and secured the joint firmly. I then wound thick string round top and bottom to form a band, gave it two coats of paint and there was a good stand to hold the drippings of wet umbrellas.

"Ah, I see the answer in your face," said a Bruce fellow who proposed to a Holden girl. "How can you see it?" she asked. "Why, I read between the lines," he replied.

Remembrance Day

On Monday, November 11, the citizens of many countries mark the seventeenth anniversary of the day in 1918 when the order to cease fire was given. For more than four years the great nations of the world had given their best manhood to be killed, maimed and broken in that useless and wasteful struggle.

Each year for seventeen years its anniversary has been suitably marked in Canada. Remembrance Day, November 11, is a national holiday throughout the Dominion. The purpose of the holiday is to give the people an opportunity to join in the commemorative services which are such an important part of the day's observance.

For those who lost loved ones in the war, the day must always have a poignant personal significance. For those who were not so closely touched it is a day full of memories. In the years that have passed since 1918 a generation has grown up that knows nothing of war; knows nothing of the suffering and the horrors that it entails, and is in danger of believing that there is something fine and honorable about it.

Remembrance Day is a day on which some thought should be given to the hideous slaughter, the terrible suffering and the utterly useless waste of war. For the sake of those who were destroyed in that holocaust that swept the world from 1914 to 1918 the younger people should be protected from a similar fate. Those who lost their dear ones, and all those who passed through those fearful years, should give thought to how best to keep the young people of today from the fate which overtook the young people of 1914.

Two minutes of silence and a genuine prayer for help should stiffen the determination of our people for peace. There is no nobler cause.

Poppy Day

The symbolism of the Poppy, the sorrowful appropriateness of its blood-red bloom, takes a deeper significance with each succeeding year. The Great War is passing almost into legend; a generation is bequeathed the duty of carrying into the years that have yet to come the work and the ideals of those whom the Poppy commemorates.

Canada has adopted the Poppy as a symbol because of the 60,000 graves in France and Belgium in which lie the dead of the preceding generation, because of the 170,000 Canadians to whom the conflict brought disablement of one kind or another. The crosses in the cemeteries of Flanders are garlanded with Poppies—dolorous emblems of a nation's youth consumed in the "Wrath-red" force of War.

On Poppy Day this Dominion ceases its normal activities to recall the sacrifice of its young men, to pay tribute to their heroism, their hardihood and the uncompromising fortitude with which they bore their privations and sufferings. At the same time, Canada strives to liquidate in some small measure, an obligation to those disabled men employed in the Vetract Workshops of the Country, whose only means of livelihood is the making of these simple emblems.

The wide ramifications of the great Canadian Legion, with its tens of thousands of workers on Poppy Day, take care of the distribution of these Poppies throughout Canada. There is thus ensured to their disabled comrades in these Vetract shops a loyal performance of a sorrowful yet prideful task.

All Canadians of every age and degree should wear a symbol on Poppy Day. For that is surely a day of re-consecration and of re-dedication to the work on hand of continuing the structure of civilization where the workers of a previous generation left off.

Billions for Distribution, But—

(Times, Washington, D.C.)

An English statistician has computed the sums of money spent by the various warring nations during the World War for death and destruction. It was found that, taken in the aggregate, the cost of the World War if devoted to peace: time resources, would have been sufficient to accomplish the following:

To buy a house with garden, garage, and other outbuildings at the value of $8,000 for each and every family in the United States, Canada, England, France, Belgium, Germany and Russia.

To build a $10,000,000 hospital in each of these seven major countries of 200,000 or more inhabitants.

To erect a public library in each of these cities at the same value.

To give each of these a university costing $20,000,000.

And after all this, still have enough money left to buy all the real estate of France and Belgium at pre-war prices.

Statistics such as these depict a sum so huge as to be beyond comprehension. The moral is, of course, that this vast sum was spent not for the benefit of humanity but for its destruction. The billions were poured out in order that property might be levelled and millions of lives destroyed. It was all done in the name of patriotism—few dared raise their voices in protest at the gigantic waste.

Suppose in 1914 the governments of the world had decided to spend these billions in a world-wide program for human betterment. What an uproar there would have been from our masters of finance! The program would have been denounced as a drunken orgy of spending and tax-wasting, even if the program called for the expenditure of one tenth or one hundredth of the cost of the war.

Today, with a depression to be conquered that offers a threat against human happiness and safety far worse than war, the financial powers clamor against government relief programs and endangering the national credit. Suppose this nation were suddenly plunged into a war, as not a few of our plutocrats seem only too ready to sanction. Would they tell us our national exchequer couldn't stand the strain, or would they stand the old time hallelujah?

It's strange that those who are so anxious for a balancing of the federal budget today, when taxpaying power is down and incomes are reduced, desperately fought balancing the budget in the war-time years, when incomes were high and war profits were pouring in. No, the profiteers of those days didn't want to balance the budget and pay the cost of the war out of current income. It was the thing, then, to pass the cost of the war on to future generations to be squeezed out of the masses of the people.

If there is any extinguisher for talk of war at the present time, it is the desperate cost in men and money of the last war. With over half of the federal tax dollar going for past wars and present militarism, what sane person is going to accept in any degree the lurking propaganda that another war might be a good thing.

Let those, too, who are fighting the expenditure of a few billions for relief contemplate the cost of the destruction of 1914-18 and then continue their clamoring.

(From the Viking News)

It is interesting to note that five of the men who were on the Rangers' lineup in 1926 are the mainstay of the line-up for the 1935 season. Among these is Murray Murdoch, known as the "Iron Man of Hockey" because he has played in every regular game. The youngsters may prove fast skaters and appear to make quite an exhibition, but the brains of the veteran seems to count a lot with the manager.

Lights for Great Mass

SEVENTY-FIVE thousand candles of pure beeswax were ordered for the great midnight mass Wednesday, September 25, in Cleveland stadium, one of the most impressive of the many religious ceremonies of the Eucharistic Congress of the Catholic Church.

SOMETHING OLD—SOMETHING NEW

Some recipes are so good that no thought is given to changing them and each year they taste better—Pickled Beets, Mustard Relish, Celery Pickle, and Pear Jam all come from Grandmother's cook book, while Jewel Jam, Carrot Ketchup, and Apples in Cranberry Juice are quite new and unusual. The following recipes were prepared and tested by Miss Edith L. Elliot, Fruit Branch, Dominion Dept. of Agriculture.

Celery Pickle.

6 heads celery, 2 onions. Put thru the mincer. Add 1 cup brown sugar, ½ pound mustard, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 tablespoon pepper, 2 quarts vinegar, ½ teaspoon turmeric. Mix and simmer slowly 1½ hours. Bottle while hot.

Carrot Ketchup

4 cups chopped carrots, 1 green pepper chopped finely, 1 onion chopped finely, 1 cup chopped celery. Two cups vinegar, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon paprika. Cook until thick, press through a fruit press or coarse sieve, reheat and bottle hot.

Apples in Cranberry Juice

Peel and quarter apples which will not break down in cooking (snow apples are excellent), pack in jars. To each pint jar allow 1 cup cranberries, 1 cup water and 1 cup sugar. Add water to cranberries and skins and cores of apples, cook slowly ten minutes, drain, add sugar and bring to a boil, pour over apples. Sterilize ten minutes in a hot water bath, or fifteen minutes in the oven at 275 degrees F.

If apples are to be used often we should have variety in their preparation, some change from apple sauce and apple pie, however toothsome these may be.

Apple Sauce

A method for making apple sauce quickly and satisfactorily is as follows: Wash the apples, cut in eighths, add sufficient water to prevent burning. Cook until tender in covered saucepan, press through a strainer, sweeten to taste. This method retains full food value and gives minimum waste.

Baked Apples and Peaches

Peel, core and slice six apples. Peel and slice six peaches. Arrange in alternate layers in baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with sugar and bake 30 minutes at 400 degrees F. Serve cold. For a winter dessert use canned peaches, reserving the juice for a gelatin dessert or pudding sauce.

Serves 6.

Apple Custard Pie

1 pint milk, 3 eggs, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 grated apple. Beat eggs, add sugar, then milk. Strain. Add grated apple and bake in one crust.

Apple Souffle

4½ tablespoons minute tapioca, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk scalded, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon lemon juice, 3 egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon-colored, 3 egg whites stiffly beaten, 1 cup grated raw apple, or drained cooked apple pulp.

Add minute tapioca and salt to milk, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add sugar. Cool. Add egg yolks, lemon juice, and apples. Fold in egg whites. Bake in greased baking dish, placed in pan of hot water, in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 1 hour. Serve hot with sweetened whipped cream. Serves 8.

If desired, the whipped cream may be forced through a pastry tube into rosettes on waxed paper, and frozen in the freezing tray of an automatic refrigerator.

I've pondered over a very peculiar thing," said one of our young married men to another in the post office lobby yesterday. "What is it?" the other asked. "How putting a ring on a woman's third finger should place you under that woman's thumb," he replied.
